STATE POLITICIANS ARE ALL UP IN AIR ON EVE OF MOST MOMENTOUS PRIMARY; BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT OF WINNING

Pinchot Has Waged A Strenuous Campaign Single-handed Against State Leaders. WOMEN A FACTOR

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 15.—Unbiased political prophets find themselves at sea today in trying to pick the winner in the contest between the Pennsylvania State Republican organization and the independent wing of the party which is to be decided tomorrow. To an unprecedented degree the result of the contest between George E. Alter, the organization's candidate for governor and Gifford Pinchot, the independent progressive candidate for the same office, lies in the hands of the people, particularly of the women, the politicians say, because they are taking part for the first time in a primary election of general importance. It is primarily a fight for the continued existence of the old Penrose organization, leaderless since his death, not only as a Pennsylvania entity but in national politics as well. A prayer against this organization is the "spirit of 1912," the old progressive revolt led by Gifford Pinchot, a Rooseveltian Republican.

If Pinchot wins tomorrow the independents in the G. O. P. in a dozen other states will have visions of sweeping into control of the party.

An eleventh hour canvass of the state concluded here today indicates that Alter is likely to win and that George Wharton Pepper would beat William J. Burke, independent labor Republican, for the nomination for United States Senate. Burke's managers here claimed victory for him by 100,000 on the basis of the attack he has made on Pepper's vote on the Newberry case, his attitude on the bonus and his general position with regard to the masses.

Popular School Teacher Passed Away Sun. Last

Miss Maude Pletcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Pletcher of So. Second Street passed away at the Clearfield Hospital at 4 o'clock Sunday morning after a week's illness, following a surgical operation. Miss Pletcher had been a sufferer from appendicitis and serious stomach trouble for some time and an operation was decided upon by her physicians last week. She entered the hospital on Sunday of last week and was operated upon, on Monday, the appendix and tumorous growth being removed. She rallied for a time following the operation but suffered a sinking spell Saturday evening which continued until the end came.

The deceased was a native of Centre County and came to Clearfield with her parents about sixteen years ago. She was employed as a teacher in the public schools shortly after coming here and when taken sick was engaged as head of the primary department at Market Street school. She was an exceptionally capable teacher and her death is a distinct loss to our schools.

Miss Pletcher was a graduate of Lock Haven Normal School and of King's School of Oratory at Pittsburgh. She possessed exceptional ability as a reader or elocutionist and was for several years a member of the faculty of Susquehanna College of Music.

An earnest, consistent member of Trinity Methodist Church since coming to Clearfield, she took quite an active interest in the activities of her church.

She was greatly beloved in her home, by her fellow teachers and in the school room, where her little charges simply worshipped her. Quiet and unassuming, with a sunny disposition, she gave the best of her abilities to every task which fell to her hands, and her passing is a distinct loss to our community as she will be sadly missed in many circles where her thoughtful, unselfish kindnesses (Continued on Page Three)

WEST SIDE SUNDAY SCHOOL UPSETS ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS

Intensive Campaign Brings Attendance At Mother's Day Session Up To Total Of 1225.

BIG ACHIEVEMENT

Once more we are called upon to register a victory and an achievement really worth while by those indefatigable Sunday School Workers of the West Side Methodist church, who have the happy faculty of accomplishing the hitherto believed to be impossible when they set out to render a proper account of their stewardship.

This Sunday School has been progressing by leaps and bounds the past couple of years and is a shining example of what intelligent, well directed effort will accomplish. The "high water mark" in point of attendance was reached by the West Side Sunday School one year ago, when 691 persons were in attendance. Easter Sunday this mark was shoved up to 813, and many thought the extreme limit was reached by this phenomenal attendance. Not so the earnest men and women engaged in assisting in the doing of the Lord's work in that congregation. These "willing workers" believed they were far from having reached their limit and to demonstrate that belief set the goal for attendance at Sunday School on "Mother's Day" at $1000.

Their fondest dreams were realized and exercised faith fully rewarded yesterday when a count of those participating at the Sunday School services showed the total to be just 1225 souls.

Long before the hour fixed for the start of the service the thoroughness of the campaign made by the workers became apparent when upon every highway and byway in that section of the town appeared groups of people heading for the modest little church on Nichols street. By the time the hour for opening the service arrived the church was crowded even beyond its capacity, while the basement, lawn and porches of adjacent homes were utilized to take care of those unable to get inside.

The Men's Bible class, numbering 155, occupied the basement, giving up their usual places to several other classes, each nearly reaching the 100 mark. One of the unusual and outstanding features of the day was the 67 young men making up L. J. Boyce's class, seated on the church lawn in a semi-circle during the lesson period.

It was a scene and a day long to be remembered by the entire West Side congregation and serves to demonstrate what can be accomplished among our people by a properly directed congregational effort when the heart is in the work.

As an indication of the strides these earnest hardworking West Side Methodists are making it is only necessary to quote Raymond Ogden who was Superintendent of the Sunday School twelve years ago. At that time the total number of scholars in the Sunday School was 95, the collection taken amounted to $235. -Yes today's total 1225; collection amounted to $69.65.

Superintendent Harry Shaw, Rev. Armstrong and the other Sunday School leaders and workers who attained this great success are entitled to the highest praise and commendation.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Moyer at their home on Maple avenue this morning a pair of twins.

Mrs. Carrie Lahch left for Pittsburgh where she will visit her daughter, Isabelle.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING BY WEST SIDE BOY

Geo. Marsden, 12 Year
Old Son Of Mr. And
Mrs. William Marsden,
Near Death.

FRIEND SAVED HIM

The "ol' swimmin' hole" in the river at the foot of Coal Hill came within an ace of claiming another victim on Saturday afternoon. George Marsden the 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Marsden of Merrill street being the near victim who escaped a watery grave by a hair or more properly speaking, a handful of hair.

Little Marsden in company with about a dozen other boys went up to swim Saturday. Being the first time in for the season for some of them, they had of course to swim across the river as a sort of initiatory ceremony. The Marsden lad was not equal to the occasion and when half way across became exhausted by his efforts in the chilly water and with a cry for help went to the bottom in about six feet of water.

John Thomas, 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Thomas, who was fixing a spring board on the diving rock in the middle of the river about fifty feet from the drowning boy, seeing the lad go down, at once started to his rescue. The Marsden boy's head bobbed up and down a couple of times while young Thomas was swimming toward him and when

GILLILAND BROS. STORE VISITED BY ROBBERS SUNDAY

Entrance Gained Thru
Cellar Window; Money
And Merchandise Taken
Totals $50.00.

TWO CAPTURED

The general store of Gilliland Bros. on Daisy street, East End, was broken into and robbed of $12.00 in cash and merchandise to the amount of about $50 sometime Sunday night. The thieves gained entrance by tearing a wire screen from the cellar window and breaking the glass out of the window.

The loot, aside from the cash consisted of two knives, each on a chain, ten watch chains, 800 cigarettes and a lot of cigars and tobacco.

Proprietor W. E. Gilliland and the police succeeded in picking up a clue which led to the West Side and as a result of Mr. Gilliland's gum shoe work Arthur Maimes and Clarence Harkins, aged 16 and 17 years, were arrested and placed in the lockup charged with the crime. There was a third young man in the gang but the two boys in custody refused to tell who he is or to produce the stolen goods.

Mrs. A. E. Patton of Philadelphia, is visiting her brother H. G. Dill and sisters Mrs. Rey and Miss Dill on Second street.

MAY FESTIVAL AND PLAY PARTY AT PARK WAS PLEASING SIGHT

Children Of Market St.
And Parochial Schools
Make Fine Showing At Playground Games.

FINE EXHIBITION

The May Festival and Play Party held at Lower Wmmer Park on Saturday afternoon by the school children under the direction of Clearfield Community Service was an event of unusual grace and beauty and attracted a large number of people, who were emphatic in their expression of opinion that such opportunities for constructive play should be made permanent for Clearfield's children.

A background of green boughs had been arranged as a setting for the May Queen's throne, with the May Pole with its pink and blue streamers in the center. The festivities began with the entrance of Miss Springtime with her court of heralds, crown bearer, and dainty little, fairy like attendants. After Miss Springtime had been crowned and two folk dances the Spirit of Play entered accompanied by eight attendants with toy balloons. Miss Eleanor Rowles, as the Spirit of Play danced a very charming symbolic dance followed by a bubble dance whose beauty brought much applause.

An hour of games followed in which all of the two hundred children from the Market street school and St. Francis school took part. One old fashioned game, in which the children wore sun bonnets and large straw hats, was particularly entertaining. Relay races, folk dances, singing games, quiet games and running games, were played by the youngsters, who were soon so in the spirit of the games as to forget all about the crowd of parents and friends looking on.

The May Queen and her attendants concluded the games with the May Pole dance, and their graceful little white figures weaving in and out among the pink and blue ribbons were strikingly beautiful. After the games, the children formed in lines like the spokes of a wheel with the American flag at the hub, and after giving the flag salute, sang "America" with much spirit.

Great credit should go to the teachers who prepared the children for the May festival, especially to Miss Edna

CLEARFIELD HIGH ATHLETIC TEAM SHINES AT STATE

Cleans Up Against All The High Schools In State But Prep School Giants Too Strong.

ILLNESS HANDICAP

By DICK LIEPOLD

Saturday, with Old Sol blazing from a perfect sky, some five hundred athletes toiled yeomanly to score points and bring glory to their respective schools, at the Annual May Day Athletic Carnival, held by the Athletic Association, of the Pennsylvania State College. With a program that started at 10 o'clock in the morning, when the interscholastic track preliminaries were run off, a varsity lacrosse match between Syracuse and State at 1:30, and immediately following the interscholastic track finals; and a dual meet, Pitt Fresh vs. State Fresh, with a baseball game, Shady Side Academy of Pittsburgh, vs. State Fresh, thrown in extra furnished the hundred or more Clearfield fans that journeyed over the mountains to Centre County's famous college town, a day of unusually attractive athletic events.

Harrisburg Tech Wins Meet

Altho the result of the meet was not as pleasing to the followers of the Red and Black track team as last Spring's showing at State, no discredit can be placed on the local youths, who gave all, everything they had to fight for old Clearfield, but it was merely another example of experience and size, meeting the young novice, especially in the weight and field events. In these events Clearfield High students looked like midgets besides the young (?) giants from Bellefonte Academy, Mansfield Normal, Potomac State School of West Virginia, Mansfield Normal and Harrisburg Tech.

Harrisburg Tech with a team, strong in all events, nosed out the Academy men from Bellefonte with a total of 35½ points. Bellefonte's total was 31 points with Potomac State School a close third in team scoring. There were twenty-six prep and high school teams entered, fifteen schools scored points. Clearfield being ahead of Williamsport, Latrobe, Patton, DuBois, Troy and State College High.

Capt. McKendrick's Loss Felt

Entering the meet without the services of Capt. McKendrick, Clearfield's hope of winning in three events were shattered—the 440 yard dash, half mile and one mile relay. Notwithstanding this handicap, Clearfield placed among the first four in a field of twelve relay teams.

"Hence" Johnson ran a pretty mile race and copped second place in easy fashion, against twenty odd entrants.

Torrence Retains 220 Title

By equalling the Penn State interscholastic record of 23 seconds flat, Cecil Torrence, the Red and Black's reliable dash star, won the 220 yard final, in one of the best races of the day. Torrence also finished his lap of the relay with a five yard lead. Several Clearfield men reached the finals in various events, but lacked the punch to place when up against the pick of Pennsylvania's schoolboy trackers.

High School Lads vs. Near Collegians

The meet was very successful as a "meet" but much dissatisfaction was manifest among the various coaches and trainers of the high school teams taking part. The cause of this feeling was the placing of such teams as Bellefonte Academy, Potomac State, Mansfield Normal, "Tech" and other schools whose representatives are always older and usually have several years of high school training before entering prep, and are in many cases tramp athletes who attend school

7 Men, Armed To Teeth, Hold Up Train But Flee When One Of Number Is Killed.

ESCAPE IN AUTOS

Tucson, Arizona, May 15.—The old west returned today when one hundred men, armed with six shotguns and riding the pick of Arizona's cow ponies, struck off over the desert on the trail of seven train robbers. The bandits who are fleeing in silver-shells held up the Golden State Limited shortly after midnight last night. The train speeding across the desert was brought to a sudden stop with the explosion of half a dozen torpedoes placed upon the rails. The engine and mail and express cars were uncoupled and taken about a mile down the track from the coaches and sleepers. True to the traditions of the old days it was the express messenger who became the hero of the situation when he unlimbered his trusty repeater which hung on the wall of the express car and emptied the magazine in the general direction of the bandits putting them to rout after shooting to death one of their number.

Tucson, Arizona, May 15.—Word of the robbery was telephoned to Tucson and in two hours four posses, each headed by a deputy sheriff, had taken the trail of the bandits. The trail led Southward over a desolate country where water holes are few and far between. The train was cut in two and the train and express cars moved down the track about a mile. Just as the bandits were about to begin operations the door of one of the express cars opened and express messenger Harold Stewart opened fire on them, killing one of their number and putting the others, seven in number, to flight. The train was coupled up and proceeded toward Los Angeles where it was due to-day. Many of the passengers were not aware that anything out of the ordinary had occurred.

Chicago, Ill., May 15.—The Golden State Limited, crack passenger train of the Rock Island, was held up at James, Arizona, south of Tucson, at one o'clock this morning by eight bandits. The robbers stopped the train by placing torpedoes on the rails. After cutting off the engine and express cars, according to advices received here the bandits were frightened away without obtaining any loot when Harold Stewart, a messenger shot and killed one of them. The robbers planned to blow open the safe which contained a large sum of money but were obliged to give up the attempt when Stewart started firing.

Miscrants Throws
Acid Into Automobile

Some miscrants with malice aforethought ruined the upholstery in the automobile of Mrs. Mitchell Grafius of Reed street by throwing sulphuric acid all over it. Mrs. Grafius and her daughter parked their car in the alley near the hotel while they went into the Hotel Jordan Saturday evening about 8:30.

They were in the hotel for some little time and when they came out and got into their car they failed to note anything wrong but after seating themselves in the car they discovered that the fiery acid had been thrown all over the upholstered seats.

The upholstery was simply eaten in holes and the women's clothes were also burned thru where they came in contact with the acid. The police were notified of the happening but thus far have been unable to locate the acid thrower.

merely for the muscle work and nothing else.

These men should be placed in another class, for bonafide high school students cannot hope to compete with men several years their senior.

TO THE PUBLIC

The lack of respect manifested by the general public when the flag passed in the parade yesterday was very evident. Many citizens did not remove their hats. Many on the porches of houses did not rise from their chairs.

All this was noticed by the men in the line of march. Some of our citizens would not feel complimented if they heard the remarks passed by the soldiers concerning their lack of respect.

By training, a soldier has inculcated in him a marked respect for the flag. He fought for it and his pals have died for it. He expects you, Mr. Citizen, to respect it.

The American Legion of Clearfield requests that when the Flag passes in a parade or when the Star Spangled Banner is played the citizens will stand with their hats removed.

THE ROVER

A FLURRY IN PILLS

"Of course we couldn't begin to pay you what you've actually lost in advertising," he indifferently stated; "but I'll give you a chance to save a little out of the wreck," and he drew the pills towards him again and looked into the box. "How much will you take?"

Ames studied him man in perplexity, and felt that he was unfairly handicapped. He had never before tried to read a map who offered so little in the way of facial guidance.

"Fifty thousand dollars," he blurted.

Mr. Beaker's countenance widened towards the base.

"Give you twenty-five thousand," he offered; "not a cent more!"

"Cash, I suppose?" observed the agent, as if in sarcasm.

"Right on the nail!" returned Clarence promptly, betraying his first hint of eagerness.

Ames made no secret of his pleasure.

"Write me the check, less five thousand," he exclaimed. "Here are the papers and my credentials."

Mr. Beaker examined those papers with interest and a smile. At last, his face had expression.

"Option, eh?" he chuckled. "That's where the five thousand goes. Why, Kleno was originally to have been a cleaning compound! You know, I don't think it was a good name for a pill!"

"That's what worried me," acknowledged Ames. "I hope you have a better use for it?"

"Tooth wash," explained Beaker, reaching for his checkbook. "I've been hunting for a name for a month, but I never expected a snap like this. Kleno; the good, old-fashioned stuff!"

"Yes, you bought a bargain," agreed Ames, thoughtfully. "I still believe, however, you would have found the pill a good proposition. It has been tried for twenty years. It was formerly known as 'Dill's Bilious Pills'."

Clarence Beaker jerked the box towards him.

"Dill's Bilious Pills!" he repeated. "Now, that's what I call a name for a pill; especially a pill that looks like this!"

"We might negotiate with Doctor Dill for his name and formula. We can unload it on our druggists without advertising."

"John Ames, agent, waited until he had signed all papers and had received a check."

"Speaking as Doctor Dill's representative, I may say that neither the formula nor the name is for sale," he firmly announced. "The doctor will manufacture them for you, himself, but cannot begin until his return from Europe, next spring."

Chapter VIII.

Ames disliked to be cruel, but he had a test to make.

"Sorry, companions," he reported; "but they won't have the Kleno pill at any price."

Doctor Dill laughed, with no trace of disappointment.

"Mother! Dill's waxen fingers locked themselves together, and then she smiled very sweetly."

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" murmured Janet Stanbury, with softened gray eyes. "I don't care, Mr. Ames, it was a clever idea, anyhow; a brilliant idea!"

Ames felt a trifle ashamed of himself.

"I didn't come back empty-handed, however," he went on, and passed over the check. "I sold the Kleno name for a tooth wash."

"Twenty thousand dollars!" gasped the doctor, clutching at the chin which missed a beard.

"Mercy!" muttered "Mother" Dill, and, adjusting her glasses carefully as she went, she hurried over to the bird's-eye view of Pompeii.

Ames stole a glance at Janet. Again her gray eyes rested mockingly on him, and the curl came at the corners of her lips. She had penetrated him, and why had he done all this, from the time he had followed her off the train until now, when he had tried to test her? The curl came once more.

The doctor, having feasted his eyes on the check for a long minute, slowly passed it back.

"This don't belong to me," he decided.

"Why not?" disputed Ames. "You paid for the option, and besides, the check is a direct outgrowth of your pill. I am sure I won't have the check."

The doctor, who was a just man, pondered slowly.

"I'll divide it equally with you," he offered. "That is positively the only basis on which I'll do business."

"All right," accepted Ames, cheerfully. "I have less compunction of conscience about it, because I've made a bargain for you to manufacture five hundred gross of your pills a month as soon as you get back from your trip to Europe. Beaker, Troy & Pette, think 'Dill's Bilious Pills' a great name for the article!"

Janet Stanbury's eyes glowed with admiration again.

"What a triumph of cleverness!" she exclaimed, and there was no mockery about her. However, Ames reflected, her sense of humor was unable to assert itself, at any time.

Suddenly he realized that she mocked only that which she understood. The thing which had fascinated him had been but an imitation. He sighed; for her pulse was perfect and her lashes were long.

The doctor shook him by the hand, and "Mother" Dill, half smiling and half crying, drew him down, by the lapels of his coat, and kissed him.

"You've made the world so real!" she told him. "How soon can you go to Europe, Janie?"

"As soon as you can get ready," the doctor heartily.

John felt the eyes of Janet fixed on him, and that there was wisdom in them.

"Sorry," he regretted; "but it is impossible."

Milk Reduced to Twelve Cents Per Quart Starting May 16th

This price will remain effective for a short period of time during the summer months but will go back before fall. Milk at the present price is by far the cheapest food that the consumer buys. On the other hand milk is the least profitable of any commodity the farmer sells.

An economic problem confronts both the producer and the consumer. If the price of milk was lowered the producer would be compelled to go out of business. A scarcity would then force the price of the milk up. Milk must sell for a price that the producer will at least break even.

Do you know that:

The consumption of milk in the country averages one and a half pints per person, while in Clearfield it is slightly over one half pint to a person.

That one quart of milk is equal to four and three tenths eggs, as a source of protein and to eight and five tenths eggs or a pound of lean meat as a source of energy.

That milk at 16 cents per quart is as cheap a food as sirloin steak would be at 35.4 cents per pound, or eggs at 45 cents per dozen.

That to produce 100 pounds or 46 quarts of milk, it requires on an average 2.88 hours of labor, 33.5 pounds of grain, 45.3 pounds of hay, 11.5 pounds of other dry forage; 93.2 pounds of silage and 9.4 pounds of other succulent feed.

Almost one half the milk produced in the vicinity of Clearfield must be kept at home or sold at a sacrifice because of the drop in consumption. The price of milk does not warrant any drop in consumption when food values are compared. Increase in consumption would naturally make possible the lowering of the price of milk. Let the slogan be, USE MORE MILK AND HELP BOTH THE CONSUMER AND THE PRODUCER.

The following figures may interest automobile owners, who may expect to pay 30 cents per gallon for gasoline before the summer auto season well underway.

The nation's gasoline stock is still increasing and had on April 1 passed some 47,000,000 gallons, the high record mark of 807,000,000 gallons reported in storage March 1, according to a statistical summary just issued by the Bureau of Mines. Stocks 854,282,000 gallons were on hand April 1, a supply 20 per cent greater than for April 1, 1921, and 36 per cent greater than for April 1, 1920.

The number of operative refineries in the United States increased from 36 to 308 during the month of March. The daily average amount of kerosene through the stills was 1,390,000 barrels, an increase of 22,000 barrels in the daily average over the preceding month. The refineries in operation show a 79 per cent operation status based on their daily indicated capacities, this being an increase of 3 per cent over the month of February.

Domestic consumption of gasoline in the first quarter of 1922 shows an increase of 7 per cent over the first quarter of 1921 and 25 per cent over the corresponding period in 1920.

Kerosene stocks increased 19,000,000 gallons during March. Present stocks of kerosene are 125,000,000 gallons less than a year ago; production for the first quarter was less, and exports and domestic consumption are greater.

Present stocks of gas and fuel oils are 1,250,270,000 gallons, a decrease of 1,000,000 gallons as compared with the February reserve. Comparison of the first quarter of this year with a similar period last year shows an increased production of 140,741,000 gallons and an increased domestic consumption of 458,235,000 gallons. Exports and shipments to insular possessions were 68,594,000 gallons less in the first quarter this year than last. The production of lubricating oils showed a daily average decrease of 1,000 gallons, and reserves were reduced to the extent of 10,700,000 gallons during the month; the present reserve being 236,886,000 gallons.

he got to the spot Thomas saw the boy's body standing erect on the bottom of the river and diving down he grasped him by the hair of the head and pulling him to the surface started for the shore about one hundred feet distant.

While Thomas was taking him to shore little Marsden clutched him about the body and so impeded his efforts that he was unable to make any headway and with a cry for help from Thomas the struggling lads both sank beneath the waves. While under the water Thomas managed to free himself from the drowning Marsden boy's embrace and rising to the surface managed to make his way to shore in a very much exhausted condition.

William Lanich, of Reedsville, who was swimming nearby, had also headed for the drowning boy at Marsden's all for help, was at hand as Thomas came to the surface and he succeeded in getting little Marsden to safety. The lad was unconscious and several of the boys went to work on him and after rolling him about until they got a couple of gallons of water out of him, they succeeded by artificial respiration in restoring him to consciousness. He was then taken to his home where he quickly recovered and is now none the worse for his experience, but it sure was a close shave.

PRESENTING THE CANDIDACY OF G. Albert Stewart FOR ASSEMBLY

In presenting, in this manner, my candidacy for the Legislature, I feel that I am talking to thousands of men and women of this district who know me through my relation as editor of this newspaper. My views on the more important questions of this period are well known owing to the well known policies of this newspaper. I need not repeat that which has been printed so often in the editorial column.

I would only remind you of my efforts to advance the best interests of Clearfield County through the medium of clean politics.

That this newspaper has upheld the hand of the legal officers in their efforts to keep our community free from immoral influences.

That the co-operation of this newspaper has been given most freely to the advancement of the agricultural industry in this county.

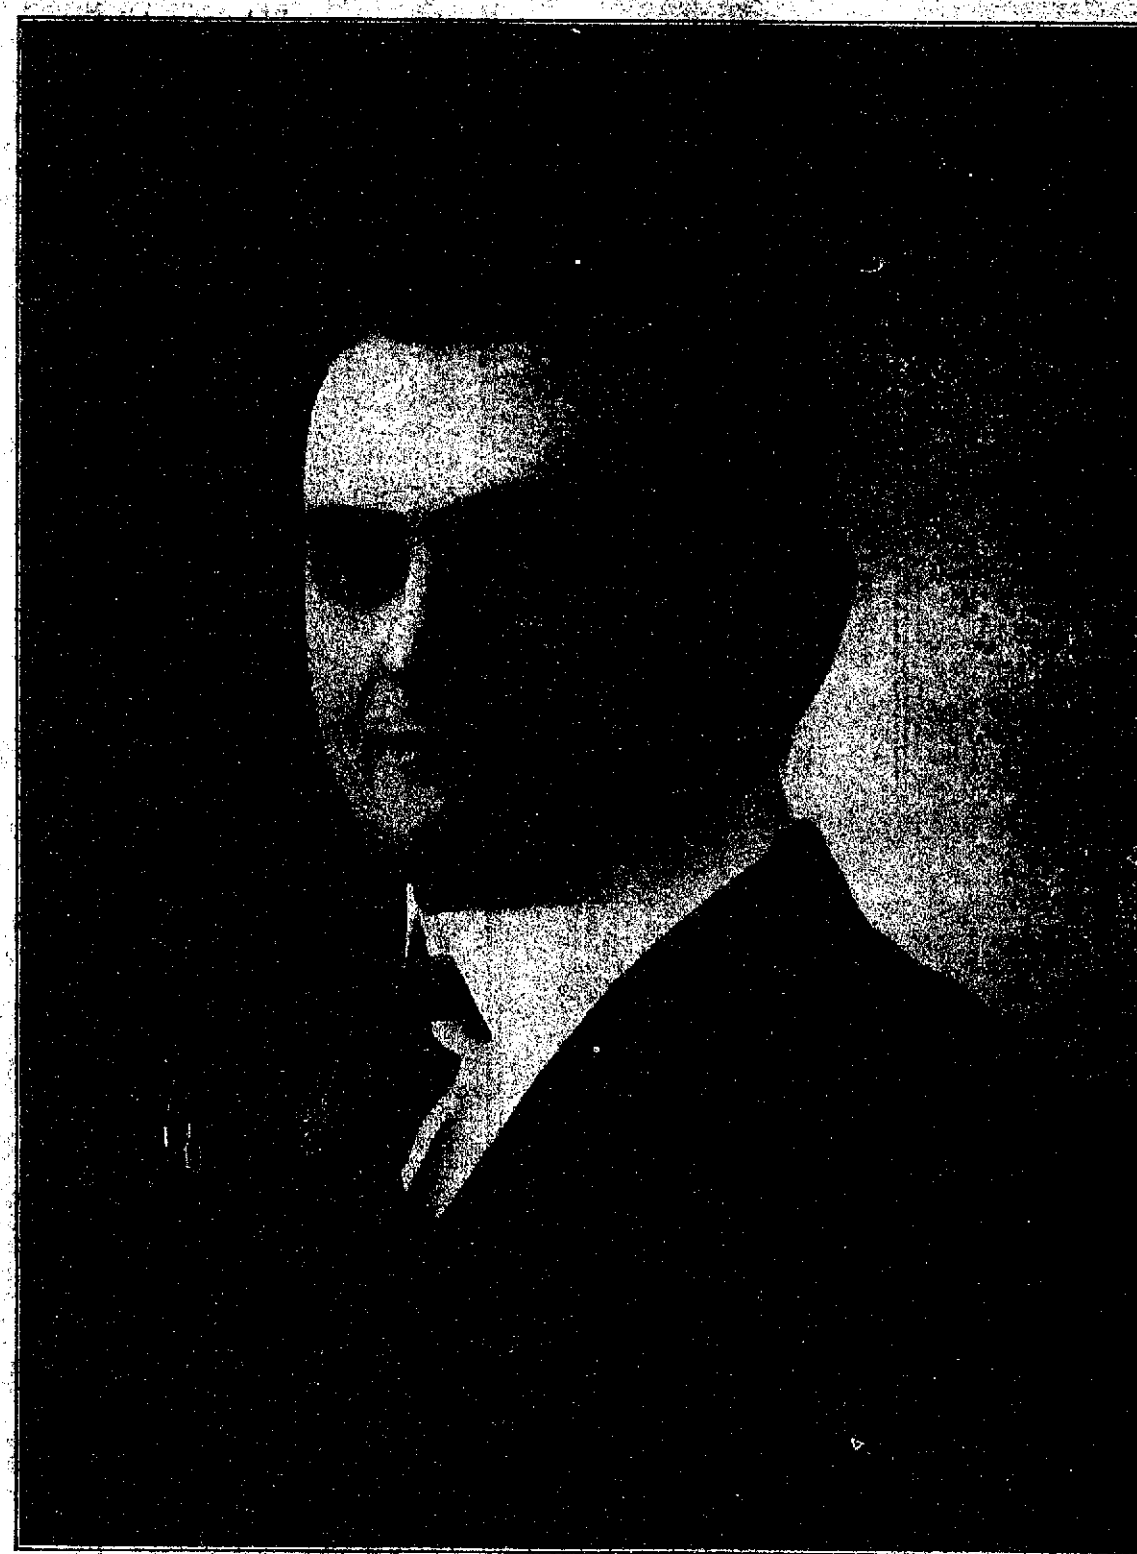

That I have been an active worker in every movement having for its object county advancement.

I hope that I may be permitted to serve the people of this district as their Assemblyman. I can only promise to work as hard in that capacity as I have worked to make a daily newspaper that would serve the community.

Your support and influence will be appreciated.

WORK AHEAD FOR CONGRESS

There are indications that Congress will be kept in session the entire summer, with the probable exception of a short recess or two which may be agreed upon to permit the members to slip back home to examine the condition of their political fences.

The Senate Finance Committee has practically re-written the Fordney Tariff Bill, passed a few weeks ago by the House and debate on the changes made in the bill is likely to run through the summer months, unless some plan is adopted to curtail the talk on the various sections of the bill.

Even after the Senate bill has been adopted, it will be necessary for the Senate and House to get together on the changes that have been made in the Fordney bill. This may be expedited by the fact that members of both houses will be anxious to get away from Washington during the closing weeks of the campaign to examine their political fences.

One of the most important Congressional elections in the history of the Republican party will be held this year and members of the majority in Congress have more than the usual interest in retaining control of Congress.

Members of the House will be more anxious to get into the campaign than will Senators who are seeking re-election, as all the members of the House will be selected and only 34 Senators. That seems to be one good reason why Representatives may seek to bring pressure on the Senators to act on pending legislation as soon as possible before August, when a number of state primaries will be held.

You Know Where Your Neighbor Stands ---

This evening I make a personal appeal to the people of this legislative district to support me in the election tomorrow. In the immediate vicinity of Clearfield I have made no personal canvass, believing that if my record as a neighbor and co-worker in every movement for public and community good, merits your support, I shall have it without taking up your time in soliciting.

To a very large extent this newspaper has reflected my position on matters of importance, but in order that no mistake may be made and all be informed, let me repeat that as an editor I have supported the following principles:

Fair Dealings between candidates for public office. (For this reason I have not used the news and editorial columns of The Progress to boost my candidacy; it would not have been fair to my opponent).

A system of state government which can, and will be so-managed, as to bring the greatest results at the least cost. A system which will make it possible to know what revenues are available before appropriations are made. A decrease in state departments and bureaus instead of an increase, unless such bureaus are created from the personnel of state officers. No further increases in salaries of state employees.

The fullest consideration for ex-service men. Our people can never discharge their obligations to these valiant defenders of world liberty. What they need is help, not praise.

A continuation of our system of primary election whereby every voter, men and women, has a voice in the selection of their party candidate.

Support of the 18th and 19th Amendments. I will oppose any measure designed to break down these forward movements.

I am sympathetic towards an old age pension law but cannot lend full support until this matter assumes more definite proportions.

I favor more responsibility and dependence being put on local peace officers, and their being held responsible for law enforcement, rather than the necessity of maintaining state paid peace officers.

I would remind the electorate that these are the things I have stood for, many of them during the times they were very unpopular. They are therefore, not promises or pledges, but reiterations of principle and policy.

I ask the Republicans of this district to make me their nominee and assure you that I will appreciate the honor by doubling my efforts to serve the district.

Use All Modes of Transport to Haul Corn Now Breaking Back of Famine in Russia

Because of the danger of an early thaw which would make the roads impassable with mud, thousands of camels, oxen, and Cossack ponies were pressed into service to haul the American corn to districts east of the Volga Basin in Russia. It was necessary, in breaking the back of the world's greatest famine, even to use hand sleds to cross ice which was too dangerous for draft animals. Rail transportation, however, proved to be the chief handicap of the American Relief Administration, for the Russian railways, never good, are very bad at present. Only vigorous action by Colonel William N. Haskell, Director of the American Relief

Administration in Russia, stimulated the railway authorities to a point where food was moved on schedule. At warehouses and along railroad tracks, beggars and hungry peasants scrape the kernels of corn out of the corners of empty box cars, digging deep into the mud for any that drop, and sift others out of filth along the tracks. Some of these gleaners eat the kernels as they walk; others put them into little sacks. The people of the lower Volga are familiar with corn, though they have not tasted it in many months. They are amazed to find that the American corn can be milled without loss, for their native corn suffers a loss of 17 per cent in milling. In addition to nearly 2,000,000 children who are being fed at American Relief Administration kitchens, the gift corn from America is bringing a new hope of life to 5,000,000 adults, and "Amerikanski maize" as a term which is spoken with a depth of feeling by the Russians in the famine district. The American Relief Administration believes the relief has progressed so far that, if a fair grain crop is harvested this year, the famine will have ended by autumn. Misery and suffering will remain, but in the words of a report from the hunger area "they will be the result of poverty, an economic condition calling for basic remedies, rather than of famine, which is a drought disaster due to natural causes."

Here's Good Advice: Relieve Your Fatigue With Sleep. Avoid Stimulants

THERE is nothing in the world so reconstructive as sound, refreshing sleep. During sleep the system rids itself of the fatigue poisons that have accumulated during the day. The food elements are taken up by the various tissues that require rebuilding nutriment.

It is important that you get plenty of health-bringing sleep. Anything that interferes with your sleep hampers and hinders you—mentally and physically.

A common cause of physical weakness and mental depression is the reaction following over-stimulation by the drug, caffeine, and other elements found in both coffee and tea.

If you have an idea that coffee or tea drinking may be injurious to your health, why not stop it for a week or so, and drink delicious, fragrant Postum instead.

Postum is a rich, golden-brown, pure cereal beverage. It contains no harmful elements of any kind. You can drink Postum as many times a day as you or the children desire a grateful, refreshing beverage.

Your grocer sells both forms of Postum: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for fully 20 minutes.

Postum for Health "There's a Reason"

May 4th was Cattle Feeders' Day at The Pennsylvania State College. In spite of the rain, several hundred farmers gathered from all parts of the State, including Clearfield County, to compare the results of different rations fed to the different pens of steers in the experiment.

Five pens of ten steers each were fed different rations during the feeding period, which lasted one hundred and forty days (December 18, 1921 to May 2, 1922).

The following table shows in detail the results of the experiment:

No. Steers in each lot	I	II	III	IV	V
	10 POUNDS	10 POUNDS	10 POUNDS	10 POUNDS	10 POUNDS
Initial Wt. per steer	902.33	904.66	903.66	900.66	893.66
Final Wt. per steer	1242.33	1267.33	1178.66	1257.33	1217.0
Total gain per steer	340	362.67	275	356.67	323.34
Total daily gain per steer	2.43	2.59	1.96	2.55	2.31
Corn silage	28.65	29.95		39.95	48.84
Corn stover	.62	.62		.70	.70
Mixed Hay			7.72
Ear Corn	14.5	10.75	14.5
Shelled corn	14.4	10.10	14.4	12.89
Molasses		3.67
Cottonseed Meal	2.65	2.65	2.65	2.65	2.65
Initial cost per cwt.	$6.60	$6.60	$6.60	$6.60	$6.60
Initial cost per steer	$59.55	$59.71	$59.64	$59.44	$58.98
Cost of feed per steer	$38.72	$39.89	$37.79	$33.17	$26.62
Total cost of steer at end of feeding period	$97.87	$99.60	$97.43	$92.61	$85.60
Cost of feed per cwt. gain	$11.27	$10.99	$13.73	$9.30	$8.20
Pork credit per steer	$6.51	$6.40	$6.40	$2.57
Cost of steer deducting pork	$91.36	$93.20	$91.03	$90.04	$84.60
Necessary selling price per cwt. at feed lot	$7.36	$7.35	$7.72	$7.16	$7.04
Appraised value at feed lot	$7.80	$7.95	$7.65	$7.70	$7.75
Profit per steer not including cost of labor and bedding	$5.54	$7.55	$0.86	$6.77	$9.72

The striking results are shown in lot three and five. In lot III where the ration is made up of mixed hay, corn and cottonseed meal, there is a loss of eighty-six cents on each steer after crediting each steer with pork to the amount of $6.40. While in lot V, with the ration of corn silage, corn stover and cottonseed meal, a profit of $9.72 per steer without any credit for pork.

Molasses was substituted for part of the corn cost per cwt. of gain was lower even tho the feed $2.01 per steer over lot I, in favor of the lot fed molasses.

Hogs were let run in all but pen V. (The pen sides the food they obtained from the droppings, where no corn was fed except in the silage). Besides the food they obtained from the droppings, they were fed one pound per day per hog of a mixture of four parts corn and one part tankage. The cost of this feed was deducted before crediting the steers with pork gained in feed lot.

The value of the manure was considered a fair exchange for cost of labor and bedding. Ear corn was fed seventy days and shelled corn seventy days.

BISHOP BERRY ENDORSES ALTER

Philadelphia, Pa., May 13.—Bishop Berry last night issued for publication an endorsement of Attorney General George E. Alter for Governor. The Bishop's statement follows:

"The written pledge that Mr. Alter gave me some time ago that he would if elected Governor, use his utmost influence to give Pennsylvania an effective enforcement law seems to have made no impression whatever upon the anti-saloon league and other powers which are supposed to be in favor of moral reform."

"This pledge, which Mr. Alter voluntarily made, was widely published in the newspapers of the state and it does seem to me, entitles him to a little fairer treatment than he has received from the managers of the campaign of his competitor. I take no part in partisan politics and up to this moment have been a silent observer of the unfair tactics which have been employed to injure my personal friend Mr. Alter, but I am now compelled to utter a protest. I have nothing to say against Mr. Pinchot, he may be as immaculate as his campaign managers say he is, but I do insist Mr. Alter be given fair treatment. He is one of the most influential laymen of my church. He is trusted implicitly not only by the leaders of the Methodist Episcopal church but by leaders of all churches where he is best known—Protestant, Catholic and Hebrew." His record on the question of prohibition and other moral and social reforms is unimpeachable, he stood absolutely for these measures when it was not as popular as now to be a reformer. The letter which I have received and the telephone conversation to which I have listened since returning to the city last night after a week's absence indicates that there exists among many good people of this city a condition of mind which approaches hysteria. "I did not suppose that I would ever be called upon to listen to such abuse written in so short a space of time as I have listened to within a few hours. The character of this campaign is in striking contrast with that which the friends of Mr. Beveridge have just conducted for him in Indiana. In that canvass there was absolutely no mudslinging, as I personally know. The campaign of vituperation through which we have just passed must be an occasion of sincere regret to all high minded persons. When primary day is over and some people have recovered from the frenzy which now seems to possess them they will not be particularly proud of some things they have said and written."

PHILIPSBURG, PENNSYLVANIA

- 1:—Clearfield and Centre Counties are the heart of the State of Pennsylvania, embracing many of the great natural resources of our State and require real representation at Harrisburg.
- 2:—Clearfield and Centre Counties have the best people on earth and demand recognition. Why should Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties dictate the legislative policies of our State? We need a man who can "speak out in meeting" for the benefit of his constituents.
- 3:—Clearfield and Centre Counties need a Senator who is experienced in legislative procedure and will know when the things are "being pulled off" that may work to the detriment of these two great counties.

RUSS PROBLEM GOES TO HAGUE TRIBUNAL IN FOR SOME WORRY

Genoa, Italy, May 15.—The special subcommittee of the Genoa Economic Conference today sent their reply to the latest Russian note proposing that the Genoa conference be adjourned until June when delegates will meet at the Hague. The United States has been formally invited to join in the Hague conference. The subcommittee's note to Russia was delivered by Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy. Schanzer assured Tchitcherine the Russian delegate that the Allies have no intention of excluding Russia at the Hague and that the Soviet government will have complete equality at the meeting.

Washington, D. C., May 15.—Two bills, providing Attorney General Daugherty with money and machinery for the prosecution of war grafters are slated for quick enactment today. One bill provides $500,000 to be furnished to the Department of justice and the other bill creates a special grand jury in the District of Columbia. The Attorney General told Congress that it is his plan to impanel the special grand jury immediately after he is authorized to do so and lay before it the evidence in the cases which fall under the jurisdiction of the courts here.

VOTERS:

*Keep Jones In Mind
for Assemblyman*

ooOoo

Clearfield county voters should keep in mind Chas. B. Jones, of Bigler township, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Assembly from the First District. Mr. Jones, in a statement to the public, says:

"I stand for a state budget that will keep the expenses within the income. I am for good government and the reduction of the taxes. I favor good schools, and I certainly want to see good roads all over the state, but at a reasonable cost to the taxpayers.

"The maintenance of the direct primary is, in my opinion, very essential, and I am, of course, in favor of protecting the rights of the women voters.

VOLUME XVI THE CLEARFIELD PROGRESS, CLEARFIELD, PA., MONDAY EVENING, MAY 15, 1922. NUMBER 113

STATE POLITICIANS ARE ALL UP IN AIR ON EVE OF MOST MOMENTOUS PRIMARY; BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT OF WINNING

Pinchot Has Waged A Strenuous Campaign Single-handed Against State Leaders. WOMEN A FACTOR

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 15.—Unbiased political prophets find themselves at sea today in trying to pick the winner in the contest between the Pennsylvania State Republican organization and the independent wing of the party which is to be decided tomorrow. To an unprecedented degree the result of the contest between George E. Alter, the organization's candidate for governor and Gifford Pinchot, the independent progressive candidate for the same office, lies in the hands of the people, particularly of the women, the politicians say, because they are taking part for the first time in a primary election of general importance. It is primarily a fight for the continued existence of the old Penrose organization, leaderless since his death, not only as a Pennsylvania entity but in national politics as well. A prayer against this organization is the "spirit of 1912," the old progressive revolt led by Gifford Pinchot, a Rooseveltian Republican.

If Pinchot wins tomorrow the independents in the G. O. P. in a dozen other states will have visions of sweeping into control of the party.

An eleventh hour canvass of the state concluded here today indicates that Alter is likely to win and that George Wharton Pepper would beat William J. Burke, independent labor Republican, for the nomination for United States Senate. Burke's managers here claimed victory for him by 100,000 on the basis of the attack he has made on Pepper's vote on the Newberry case, his attitude on the bonus and his general position with regard to the masses.

Popular School Teacher Passed Away Sun. Last

Miss Maude Fletcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Fletcher of So. Second Street passed away at the Clearfield Hospital at 4 o'clock Sunday morning after a week's illness, following a surgical operation. Miss Fletcher had been a sufferer from appendicitis and serious stomach trouble for some time and an operation was decided upon by her physicians last week. She entered the hospital on Sunday of last week and was operated upon, on Monday, the appendix and tumorous growth being removed. She rallied for a time following the operation but suffered a sinking spell Saturday evening which continued until the end came.

The deceased was a native of Centre County and came to Clearfield with her parents about sixteen years ago. She was employed as a teacher in the public schools shortly after coming here and when taken sick was engaged as head of the primary department at Market Street school. She was an exceptionally capable teacher and her death is a distinct loss to our schools.

Miss Fletcher was a graduate of Lock Haven Normal School and of King's School of Oratory at Pittsburgh. She possessed exceptional ability as a reader or elocutionist and was for several years a member of the faculty of Susquehanna College of Music.

An earnest, consistent member of Trinity Methodist Church since coming to Clearfield, she took quite an active interest in the activities of her church.

She was greatly beloved in her home, by her fellow teachers and in the school room, where her little charges simply worshipped her. Quiet and unassuming, with a sunny disposition, she gave the best of her abilities to every task which fell to her hands, and her passing is a distinct loss to our community as she will be sadly missed in many circles where her thoughtful, unselfish kindnesses (Continued on Page Three)

WEST SIDE SUNDAY SCHOOL UPSETS ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS

Intensive Campaign Brings Attendance At Mother's Day Session Up To Total Of 1225. BIG ACHIEVEMENT

Once more we are called upon to register a victory and an achievement really worth while by those indefatigable Sunday School Workers of the West Side Methodist church, who have the happy faculty of accomplishing the hitherto believed to be impossible when they set out to render a proper account of their stewardship.

This Sunday School has been progressing by leaps and bounds the past couple of years and is a shining example of what intelligent, well directed effort will accomplish. The "high water mark" in point of attendance was reached by the West Side Sunday School one year ago, when 691 persons were in attendance. Easter Sunday this mark was shoved up to 813, and many thought the extreme limit was reached by this phenomenal attendance. Not so the earnest men and women engaged in assisting in the doing of the Lord's work in that congregation. These "willing workers" believed they were far from having reached their limit and to demonstrate that belief set the goal for attendance at Sunday School on "Mother's Day" at $1000.

Their fondest dreams were realized and exercised faith fully rewarded yesterday when a count of those participating at the Sunday School services showed the total to be just 1225 souls.

Long before the hour fixed for the start of the service the thoroughness of the campaign made by the workers became apparent when upon every highway and byway in that section of the town appeared groups of people heading for the modest little church on Nichols street. By the time the hour for opening the service arrived the church was crowded even beyond its capacity, while the basement, lawn and porches of adjacent homes were utilized to take care of those unable to get inside.

The Men's Bible class, numbering 155, occupied the basement, giving up their usual places to several other classes, each nearly reaching the 100 mark. One of the unusual and outstanding features of the day was the 67 young men making up L. J. Boyce's class, seated on the church lawn in a semi-circle during the lesson period.

It was a scene and a day long to be remembered by the entire West Side congregation and serves to demonstrate what can be accomplished among our people by a properly directed congregational effort when the heart is in the work.

As an indication of the strides these earnest hardworking West Side Methodists are making it is only necessary to quote Raymond Ogden who was Superintendent of the Sunday School twelve years ago. At that time the total number of scholars in the Sunday School was 95, the collection taken amounted to $235. -Yes today's total 1225; collection amounted to $69.65.

Superintendent Harry Shaw, Rev. Armstrong and the other Sunday School leaders and workers who attained this great success are entitled to the highest praise and commendation.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Moyer at their home on Maple avenue this morning a pair of twins.

Mrs. Carrie Lahch left for Pittsburgh where she will visit her daughter, Isabelle.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING BY WEST SIDE BOY

Geo. Marsden, 12 Year
Old Son Of Mr. And
Mrs. William Marsden,
Near Death.

FRIEND SAVED HIM

The "ol' swimmin' hole" in the river at the foot of Coal Hill came within an ace of claiming another victim on Saturday afternoon. George Marsden the 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Marsden of Merrill street being the near victim who escaped a watery grave by a hair or more properly speaking, a handful of hair.

Little Marsden in company with about a dozen other boys went up to swim Saturday. Being the first time in for the season for some of them, they had of course to swim across the river as a sort of initiatory ceremony. The Marsden lad was not equal to the occasion and when half way across became exhausted by his efforts in the chilly water and with a cry for help went to the bottom in about six feet of water.

John Thomas, 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Thomas, who was fixing a spring board on the diving rock in the middle of the river about fifty feet from the drowning boy, seeing the lad go down, at once started to his rescue. The Marsden boy's head bobbed up and down a couple of times while young Thomas was swimming toward him and when en Totals $50.00.

TWO CAPTURED

The general store of Gilliland Bros. on Daisy street, East End, was broken into and robbed of $12.00 in cash and merchandise to the amount of about $50 sometime Sunday night. The thieves gained entrance by tearing a wire screen from the cellar window and breaking the glass out of the window.

The loot, aside from the cash consisted of two knives, each on a chain, ten watch chains, 800 cigarettes and a lot of cigars and tobacco.

Proprietor W. E. Gilliland and the police succeeded in picking up a clue which led to the West Side and as a result of Mr. Gilliland's gum shoe work Arthur Maines and Clarence Harkins, aged 16 and 17 years, were arrested and placed in the lockup charged with the crime. There was a third young man in the gang but the two boys in custody refused to tell who he is or to produce the stolen goods.

MAY FESTIVAL AND PLAY PARTY AT PARK WAS PLEASING SIGHT

Children Of Market St.
And Parochial Schools

Playground Games.

FINE EXHIBITION

The May Festival and Play Party held at Lower Wmner Park on Saturday afternoon by the school children under the direction of Clearfield Community Service was an event of unusual grace and beauty and attracted a large number of people, who were emphatic in their expression of opinion that such opportunities for constructive play should be made permanent for Clearfield's children.

A background of green boughs had been arranged as a setting for the May Queen's throne, with the May Pole with its pink and blue streamers in the center. The festivities began with the entrance of Miss Springtime with her court of heralds, crown bearer, and dainty little, fairy like attendants. After Miss Springtime had been crowned and two folk dances the Spirit of Play entered accompanied by eight attendants with toy balloons. Miss Eleanor Rowles, as the Spirit of Play danced a very charming symbolic dance followed by a bubble dance whose beauty brought much applause.

An hour of games followed in which all of the two hundred children from the Market street school and St. Francis school took part. One old fashioned game, in which the children wore sun bonnets and large straw hats, was particularly entertaining. Relay races, folk dances, singing games, quiet games and running games, were played by the youngsters, who were soon so in the spirit of the games as to forget all about the crowd of parents and friends looking on.

The May Queen and her attendants concluded the games with the May Pole dance, and their graceful little white figures weaving in and out among the pink and blue ribbons were strikingly beautiful. After the games, the children formed in lines like the spokes of a wheel with the American flag at the hub, and after giving the flag salute, sang "America" with much spirit.

Great credit should go to the teachers who prepared the children for the May festival, especially to Miss Edna

CLEARFIELD HIGH ATHLETIC TEAM SHINES AT STATE

Cleans Up Against All
The High Schools In State But Prep School
Giants Too Strong.

ILLNESS HANDICAP

By DICK LIEPOLD
Saturday, with Old Sol blazing from a perfect sky, some five hundred athletes toiled yeomanly to score points and bring glory to their respective schools, at the Annual May Day Athletic Carnival, held by the Athletic Association, of the Pennsylvania State College. With a program that started at 10 o'clock in the morning, when the interscholastic track preliminaries were run off, a varsity Lacrosse match between Syracuse and State at 1:30, and immediately following the interscholastic track finals; and a dual meet, Pitt Fresh vs. State Fresh, with a baseball game, Shady Side Academy of Pittsburgh, vs. State Fresh, thrown in extra furnished the hundred or more Clearfield fans that journeyed over the mountains to Centre County's famous college town, a day of unusually attractive athletic events.

Harrisburg Tech Wins Meet

Altho the result of the meet was not as pleasing to the followers of the Red and Black track team as last Spring's showing at State, no discredit can be placed on the local youths, who gave all, everything they had to fight for old Clearfield, but it was merely another example of experience and size, meeting the young novice, especially in the weight and field events. In these events Clearfield High students looked like midgets besides the young (?) giants from Bellefonte Academy, Mansfield Normal, Potomac State School of West Virginia, Mansfield Normal and Harrisburg Tech.

Harrisburg Tech with a team, strong in all events, nosed out the Academy men from Bellefonte with a total of 35½ points. Bellefonte's total was 31 points with Potomac State School a close third in team scoring. There were twenty-six prep and high school teams entered, fifteen schools scored points. Clearfield being ahead of Williamsport, Latrobe, Patton, DuBois, Troy and State College High.

Capt. McKendrick's Loss Felt
Entering the meet without the services of Capt. McKendrick, Clearfield's hope of winning in three events were shattered—the 440 yard dash, half mile and one mile relay. Notwithstanding this handicap, Clearfield placed among the first four in a field of twelve relay teams.

"Hence" Johnson ran a pretty mile race and copped second place in easy fashion, against twenty odd entrants.

Torrence Retains 220 Title
By equalling the Penn State interscholastic record of 23 seconds flat, Cecil Torrence, the Red and Black's reliable dash star, won the 220 yard final, in one of the best races of the day. Torrence also finished his lap of the relay with a five yard lead. Several Clearfield men reached the finals in various events, but lacked the punch to place when up against the pick of Pennsylvania's schoolboy trackers.

High School Lads vs. Near Collegians
The meet was very successful as a "meet" but much dissatisfaction was manifest among the various coaches and trainers of the high school teams taking part. The cause of this feeling was the placing of such teams as Bellefonte Academy, Potomac State, Mansfield Normal, "Tech" and other schools whose representatives are always older and usually have several years of high school training before entering prep, and are in many cases tramp athletes who attend school

7 Men, Armed To Teeth, Hold Up Train But Flee When One Of Number Is Killed.

ESCAPE IN AUTOS

Tucson, Arizona, May 15.—The old west returned today when one hundred men, armed with six-shooters and riding the pick of Arizona's cow ponies, struck off over the desert on the trail of seven train robbers. The bandits who are fleeing in silver-shells held up the Golden State Limited shortly after midnight last night. The train speeding across the desert was brought to a sudden stop with the explosion of half a dozen torpedoes placed upon the rails. The engine and mail and express cars were uncoupled and taken about a mile down the track from the coaches and sleepers. True to the traditions of the old days it was the express messenger who became the hero of the situation when he unlimbered his trusty repeater which hung on the wall of the express car and emptied the magazine in the general direction of the bandits putting them to rout after shooting to death one of their number.

Tucson, Arizona, May 15.—Word of the robbery was telephoned to Tucson and in two hours four posses, each headed by a deputy sheriff, had taken the trail of the bandits. The trail led Southward over a desolate country where water holes are few and far between. The train was cut in two and the train and express cars moved down the track about a mile. Just as the bandits were about to begin operations the door of one of the express cars opened and express messenger Harold Stewart opened fire on them, killing one of their number and putting the others, seven in number, to flight. The train was coupled up and proceeded toward Los Angeles where it was due to-day. Many of the passengers were not aware that anything out of the ordinary had occurred.

Chicago, Ill., May 15.—The Golden State Limited, crack passenger train of the Rock Island, was held up at James, Arizona, south of Tucson, at one o'clock this morning by eight bandits. The robbers stopped the train by placing torpedoes on the rails. After cutting off the en- gine and express cars, according to advice received here the bandits were frightened away without obtain- ing any loot when Harold Stewart, a messenger shot and killed one of them. The robbers planned to blow open the safe which contained a large sum of money but were obliged to give up the attempt when Stewart started firing.

Miscrants Throws Acid Into Automobile

Some miscrant with malice aforethought ruined the upholstery in the automobile of Mrs. Mitchell Grafius of Reed street by throwing sulphuric acid all over it. Mrs. Grafius and her daughter parked their car in the alley near the hotel while they went into the Hotel Jordan Saturday evening about 8:30.

They were in the hotel for some little time and when they came out and got into their car they failed to note anything wrong but after seating themselves in the car they discovered that the fiery acid had been thrown all over the upholstered seats.

The upholstery was simply eaten in holes and the women's clothes were also burned thru where they came in contact with the acid. The police were notified of the happening but thus far have been unable to locate the acid thrower.

merely for the muscle work and nothing else.

These men should be placed in another class, for bonafide high school students cannot hope to compete with men several years their senior.

TO THE PUBLIC

The lack of respect manifested by the general public when the flag passed in the parade yesterday was very evident. Many citizens did not remove their hats. Many on the porches of houses did not rise from their chairs.

All this was noticed by the men in the line of march. Some of our citizens would not feel complimented if they heard the remarks passed by the soldiers concerning their lack of respect.

By training, a soldier has inculcated in him a marked respect for the flag. He fought for it and his pals have died for it. He expects you, Mr. Citizen, to respect it.

The American Legion of Clearfield requests that when the Flag passes in a parade or when the Star Spangled Banner is played the citizens will stand with their hats removed.

THE ROVER

A FLURRY IN PILLS

"Of course we couldn't begin to pay you what you've actually lost in advertising," he indifferently stated. "But I'll give you a chance to save a little out of the wreck," and he drew the pills towards him again and looked into the box. "How much will you take?"

Ames studied him man in perplexity, and felt that he was unfairly handicapped. He had never before tried to read a map who offered so little in the way of facial guidance.

"Fifty thousand dollars," he blurted.

Mr. Beaker's countenance widened towards the base.

"Give you twenty-five thousand," he offered; "not a cent more!"

"Cash, I suppose?" observed the agent, as if in sarcasm.

"Right on the nail!" returned Clarence promptly, betraying his first hint of eagerness.

Ames made no secret of his pleasure.

"Write me the check, less five thousand," he exclaimed. "Here are the papers and my credentials."

Mr. Beaker examined those papers with interest and a smile. At last, his face had expression.

"Option, eh?" he chuckled. "That's where the five thousand goes. Why, Kleno was originally to have been a cleaning compound! You know, I don't think it was a good name for a pill!"

"That's what worried me," acknowledged Ames. "I hope you have a better use for it?"

"Tooth wash," explained Beaker, reaching for his checkbook. "I've been hunting for a name for a month, but I never expected a snap like this. Kleno; the good, old-fashioned stuff!"

"Yes, you bought a bargain," agreed Ames, thoughtfully. "I still believe, however, you would have found the pill a good proposition. It has been tried for twenty years. It was formerly known as 'Dill's Bilious Pills'."

Clarence Beaker jerked the box towards him.

"Dill's Bilious Pills!" he repeated. "Now, that's what I call a name for a pill; especially a pill that looks like this!"

"We might negotiate with Doctor Dill for his name and formula. We can unload it on our druggists without advertising."

"John Ames, agent, waited until he had signed all papers and had received a check."

"Speaking as Doctor Dill's representative, I may say that neither the formula nor the name is for sale," he firmly announced. "The doctor will manufacture them for you, himself, but cannot begin until his return from Europe, next spring."

Chapter VIII.

Ames disliked to be cruel, but he had a test to make.

"Sorry, companions," he reported; "but they won't have the Kleno pill at any price."

Doctor Dill laughed, with no trace of disappointment.

"Mother! Dill's waxen fingers locked themselves together, and then she smiled very sweetly."

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" murmured Janet Stanbury, with softened gray eyes. "I don't care, Mr. Ames, it was a clever idea, anyhow; a brilliant idea!"

Ames felt a trifle ashamed of himself.

"I didn't come back empty-handed, however," he went on, and passed over the check. "I sold the Kleno name for a tooth wash."

"Twenty thousand dollars!" gasped the doctor, clutching at the chin which missed a beard.

"Mercy!" muttered "Mother" Dill, and, adjusting her glasses carefully as she went, she hurried over to the bird's-eye view of Pompeii.

Ames stole a glance at Janet. Again her gray eyes rested mockingly on him, and the curl came at the corners of her lips. She had penetrated him, and why had he done all this, from the time he had followed her off the train until now, when he had tried to test her? The curl came once more.

The doctor, having feasted his eyes on the check for a long minute, slowly passed it back.

"This don't belong to me," he decided.

"Why not?" disputed Ames. "You paid for the option, and besides, the check is a direct outgrowth of your pill. I am sure I won't have the check."

The doctor, who was a just man, pondered slowly.

"I'll divide it equally with you," he offered. "That is positively the only basis on which I'll do business."

"All right," accepted Ames, cheerfully. "I have less compunction of conscience about it, because I've made a bargain for you to manufacture five hundred gross of your pills a month as soon as you get back from your trip to Europe. Beaker, Troy & Pette, think 'Dill's Bilious Pills' a great name for the article!"

Janet Stanbury's eyes glowed with admiration again.

"What a triumph of cleverness!" she exclaimed, and there was no mockery about her. However, Ames reflected, her sense of humor was unable to assert itself, at any time.

Suddenly he realized that she mocked only that which she understood. The thing which had fascinated him had been but an imitation. He sighed; for her pulse was perfect and her lashes were long.

The doctor shook him by the hand, and "Mother" Dill, half smiling and half crying, drew him down, by the lapels of his coat, and kissed him.

"You've made the world so real!" she told him. "How soon can you go to Europe, Janie?"

"As soon as you can get ready," the doctor heartily.

John felt the eyes of Janet fixed on him, and that there was wisdom in them.

"Sorry," he regretted; "but it is impossible."

Milk Reduced to Twelve Cents Per Quart Starting May 16th

This price will remain effective for a short period of time during the summer months but will go back before fall. Milk at the present price is by far the cheapest food that the consumer buys. On the other hand milk is the least profitable of any commodity the farmer sells.

An economic problem confronts both the producer and the consumer. If the price of milk was lowered the producer would be compelled to go out of business. A scarcity would then force the price of the milk up. Milk must sell for a price that the producer will at least break even.

Do you know that:

The consumption of milk in the country averages one and a half pints per person, while in Clearfield it is slightly over one half pint to a person.

That one quart of milk is equal to four and three tenths eggs, as a source of protein and to eight and five tenths eggs or a pound of lean meat as a source of energy.

That milk at 16 cents per quart is as cheap a food as sirloin steak would be at 35.4 cents per pound, or eggs at 45 cents per dozen.

That to produce 100 pounds or 46 quarts of milk, it requires on an average 2.88 hours of labor, 33.5 pounds of grain, 45.3 pounds of hay, 11.5 pounds of other dry forage; 93.2 pounds of silage and 9.4 pounds of other succulent feed.

Almost one half the milk produced in the vicinity of Clearfield must be kept at home or sold at a sacrifice because of the drop in consumption. The price of milk does not warrant any drop in consumption when food values are compared. Increase in consumption would naturally make possible the lowering of the price of milk. Let the slogan be, USE MORE MILK AND HELP BOTH THE CONSUMER AND THE PRODUCER.

The following figures may interest automobile owners, who may expect to pay 30 cents per gallon for gasoline before the summer auto season well underway.

The nation's gasoline stock is still increasing and had on April 1 passed some 47,000,000 gallons, the high record mark of 807,000,000 gallons reported in storage March 1, according to a statistical summary just issued by the Bureau of Mines. Stocks 854,282,000 gallons were on hand April 1, a supply 20 per cent greater than for April 1, 1921, and 36 per cent greater than for April 1, 1920.

The number of operative refineries in the United States increased from 26 to 306 during the month of March. The daily average amount of gas through the stills was 1,390,000 barrels, an increase of 22,000 barrels in the daily average over the preceding month. The refineries in operation show a 79 per cent operation status based on their daily indicated capacities, this being an increase of 3 per cent over the month of February.

Domestic consumption of gasoline in the first quarter of 1922 shows an increase of 7 per cent over the first quarter of 1921 and 25 per cent over the corresponding period in 1920.

Kerosene stocks increased 199,000,000 gallons during March. Present stocks of kerosene are 125,000,000 gallons less than a year ago; production for the first quarter was less, and exports and domestic consumption are greater.

Present stocks of gas and fuel oils are 1,250,270,000 gallons, a decrease of 1,000,000 gallons as compared with the February reserve. Comparison of the first quarter of this year with a similar period last year shows an increased production of 140,741,000 gallons and an increased domestic consumption of 458,235,000 gallons. Exports and shipments to insular possessions were 68,594,000 gallons less in the first quarter this year than last. The production of lubricating oils showed a daily average decrease of 1,000 gallons, and reserves were reduced to the extent of 10,700,000 gallons during the month; the present reserve being 236,886,000 gallons.

he got to the spot Thomas saw the boy's body standing erect on the bottom of the river and diving down he grasped him by the hair of the head and pulling him to the surface started for the shore about one hundred feet distant.

While Thomas was taking him to shore little Marsden clutched him about the body and so impeded his efforts that he was unable to make any headway and with a cry for help from Thomas the struggling lads both sank beneath the waves. While under the water Thomas managed to free himself from the drowning Marsden's embrace and rising to the surface managed to make his way to shore in a very much exhausted condition.

William Lanich, of Reedsville, who was swimming nearby, had also headed for the drowning boy at Marsden's all for help, was at hand as Thomas came to the surface and he succeeded in getting little Marsden to safety. The lad was unconscious and several of the boys went to work on him and after rolling him about until they got a couple of gallons of water out of him, they succeeded by artificial respiration in restoring him to consciousness. He was then taken to his home where he quickly recovered and is now none the worse for his experience, but it sure was a close shave.

During the afternoon, the children who were not playing games, were entertained by a group of young women dressed as gypsies, who told them stories. This is an important part of playground activity especially adapted to the hot hours of the day.

Much the same program as the above is being given this afternoon in the driving park on the West Side, unless the weather has prevented, in which case it will be given tomorrow. This program on the West Side will conclude the series of play demonstrations given by Community Service in each of the four sections of the city, where playgrounds will be conducted this summer.

PRESENTING THE CANDIDACY OF G. Albert Stewart FOR ASSEMBLY

In presenting, in this manner, my candidacy for the Legislature, I feel that I am talking to thousands of men and women of this district who know me through my relation as editor of this newspaper. My views on the more important questions of this period are well known owing to the well known policies of this newspaper. I need not repeat that which has been printed so often in the editorial column.

I would only remind you of my efforts to advance the best interests of Clearfield County through the medium of clean politics.

That this newspaper has upheld the hand of the legal officers in their efforts to keep our community free from immoral influences.

That the co-operation of this newspaper has been given most freely to the advancement of the agricultural industry in this county.

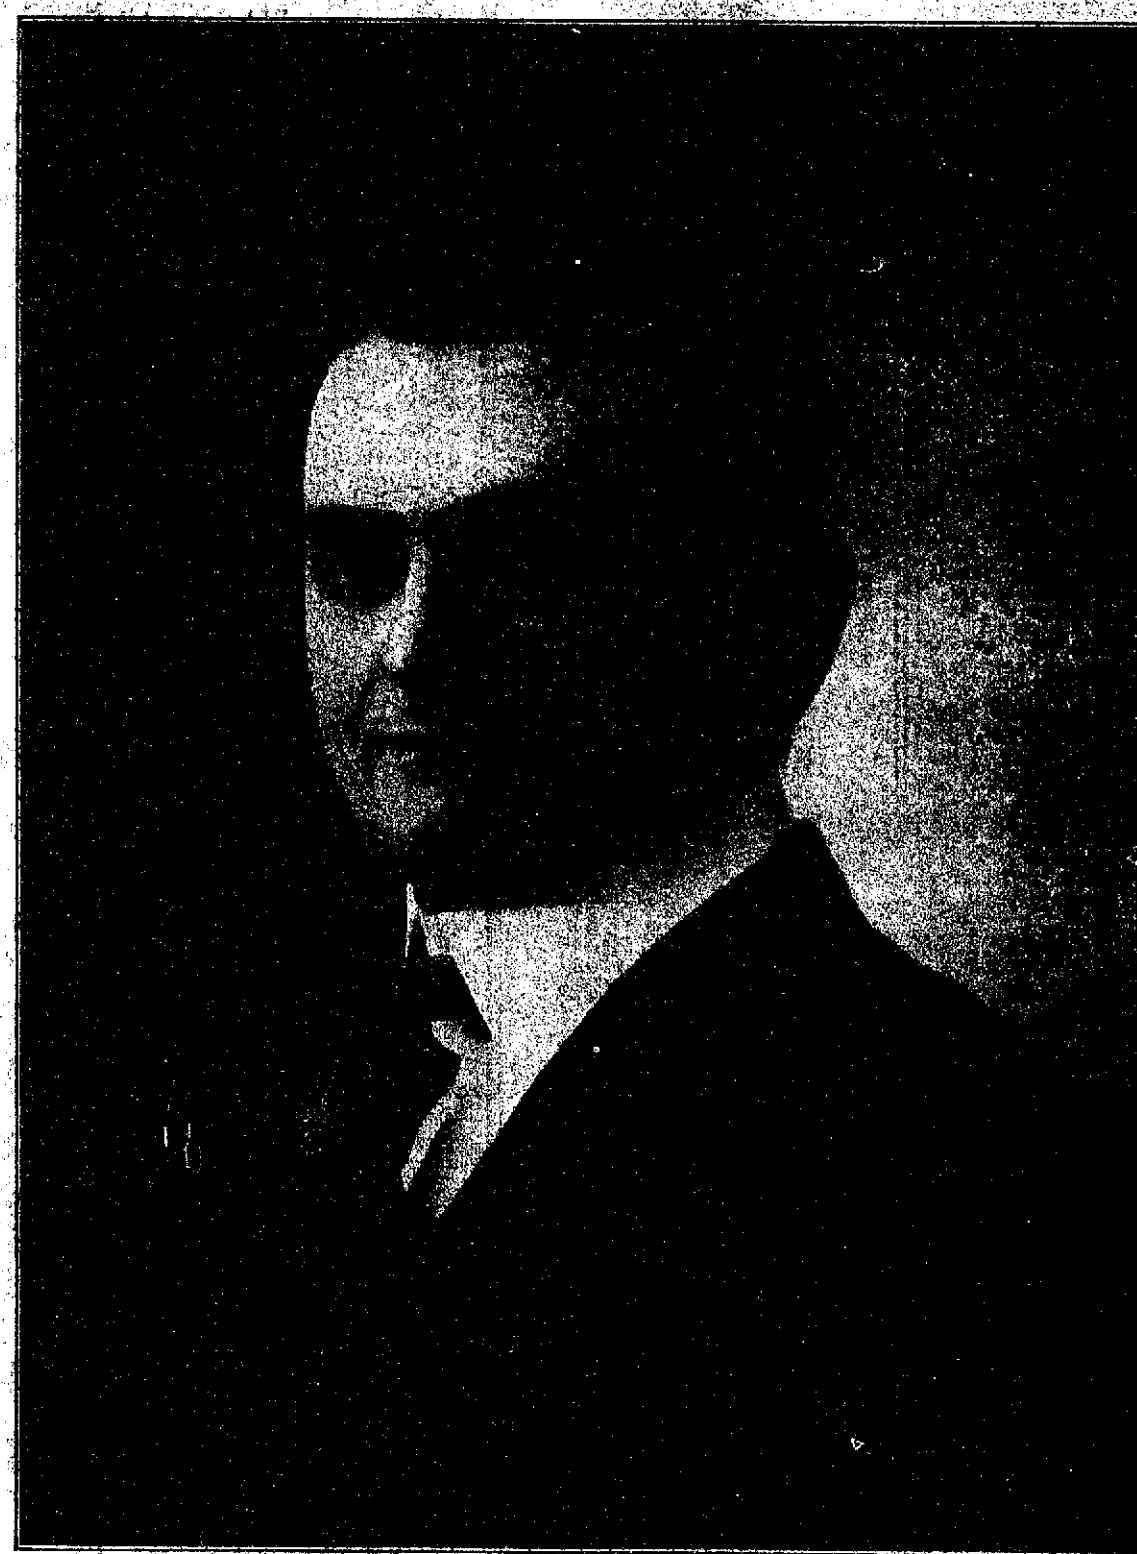

That I have been an active worker in every movement having for its object county advancement.

I hope that I may be permitted to serve the people of this district as their Assemblyman. I can only promise to work as hard in that capacity as I have worked to make a daily newspaper that would serve the community.

Your support and influence will be appreciated.

WORK AHEAD FOR CONGRESS

There are indications that Congress will be kept in session the entire summer, with the probable exception of a short recess or two which may be agreed upon to permit the members to slip back home to examine the condition of their political fences.

The Senate Finance Committee has practically re-written the Fordney Tariff Bill, passed a few weeks ago by the House and debate on the changes made in the bill is likely to run through the summer months, unless some plan is adopted to curtail the talk on the various sections of the bill.

Even after the Senate bill has been adopted, it will be necessary for the Senate and House to get together on the changes that have been made in the Fordney bill. This may be expedited by the fact that members of both houses will be anxious to get away from Washington during the closing weeks of the campaign to examine their political fences.

One of the most important Congressional elections in the history of the Republican party will be held this year and members of the majority in Congress have more than the usual interest in retaining control of Congress.

Members of the House will be more anxious to get into the campaign than will Senators who are seeking re-election, as all the members of the House will be selected and only 34 Senators. That seems to be one good reason why Representatives may seek to bring pressure on the Senators to act on pending legislation as soon as possible before August, when a number of state primaries will be held.

You Know Where Your Neighbor Stands ---

This evening I make a personal appeal to the people of this legislative district to support me in the election tomorrow. In the immediate vicinity of Clearfield I have made no personal canvass, believing that if my record as a neighbor and co-worker in every movement for public and community good, merits your support, I shall have it without taking up your time in soliciting.

To a very large extent this newspaper has reflected my position on matters of importance, but in order that no mistake may be made and all be informed, let me repeat that as an editor I have supported the following principles:

Fair Dealings between candidates for public office. (For this reason I have not used the news and editorial columns of The Progress to boost my candidacy; it would not have been fair to my opponent).

A system of state government which can, and will be so managed, as to bring the greatest results at the least cost. A system which will make it possible to know what revenues are available before appropriations are made. A decrease in state departments and bureaus instead of an increase, unless such bureaus are created from the personnel of state officers. No further increases in salaries of state employees.

The fullest consideration for ex-service men. Our people can never discharge their obligations to these valiant defenders of world liberty. What they need is help, not praise.

A continuation of our system of primary election whereby every voter, men and women, has a voice in the selection of their party candidate.

Support of the 18th and 19th Amendments. I will oppose any measure designed to break down these forward movements.

I am sympathetic towards an old age pension law but cannot lend full support until this matter assumes more definite proportions.

I favor more responsibility and dependence being put on local peace officers, and their being held responsible for law enforcement, rather than the necessity of maintaining state paid peace officers.

I would remind the electorate that these are the things I have stood for, many of them during the times they were very unpopular. They are therefore, not promises or pledges, but reiterations of principle and policy.

I ask the Republicans of this district to make me their nominee and assure you that I will appreciate the honor by doubling my efforts to serve the district.

Use All Modes of Transport to Haul Corn Now Breaking Back of Famine in Russia

Because of the danger of an early thaw which would make the roads impassable with mud, thousands of camels, oxen, and Cossack ponies were pressed into service to haul the American corn to districts east of the Volga Basin in Russia. It was necessary, in breaking the back of the world's greatest famine, even to use hand sleds to cross ice which was too dangerous for draft animals.

Rail transportation, however, proved to be the chief handicap of the American Relief Administration, for the Russian railways, never good, are very bad at present. Only vigorous action by Colonel William N. Haskell, Director of the American Relief Administration in Russia, stimulated the railway authorities to a point where food was moved on schedule.

At warehouses and along railroad tracks, beggars and hungry peasants scrape the kernels of corn out of the corners of empty box cars, digging deep into the mud for any that drop, and sift others out of filth along the tracks. Some of these gleaners eat the kernels as they walk; others put them into little sacks. The people of the lower Volga are familiar with corn, though they have not tasted it in many months. They are amazed to find that the American corn can be milled without loss, for their native corn suffers a loss of 17 per cent in milling.

In addition to nearly 2,000,000 children who are being fed at American Relief Administration kitchens, the gift corn from America is bringing a new hope of life to 5,000,000 adults, and "Amerikanski maize" as a term which is spoken with a depth of feeling by the Russians in the famine district.

The American Relief Administration believes the relief has progressed so far that, if a fair grain crop is harvested this year, the famine will have ended by autumn. Misery and suffering will remain, but in the words of a report from the hunger area "they will be the result of poverty, an economic condition calling for basic remedies, rather than of famine, which is a drought disaster due to natural causes."

Here's Good Advice: Relieve Your Fatigue With Sleep. Avoid Stimulants

THERE is nothing in the world so reconstructive as sound, refreshing sleep. During sleep the system rids itself of the fatigue poisons that have accumulated during the day. The food elements are taken up by the various tissues that require rebuilding nutriment.

It is important that you get plenty of health-bringing sleep. Anything that interferes with your sleep hampers and hinders you—mentally and physically.

A common cause of physical weakness and mental depression is the reaction following over-stimulation by the drug, caffeine, and other elements found in both coffee and tea.

If you have an idea that coffee or tea drinking may be injurious to your health, why not stop it for a week or so, and drink delicious, fragrant Postum instead.

Postum is a rich, golden-brown, pure cereal beverage. It contains no harmful elements of any kind. You can drink Postum as many times a day as you or the children desire a grateful, refreshing beverage.

Your grocer sells both forms of Postum: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for fully 20 minutes.

Postum for Health "There's a Reason"

May 4th was Cattle Feeders' Day at The Pennsylvania State College. In spite of the rain several hundred farmers gathered from all parts of the State, including Clearfield County, to compare the results of different rations fed to the different pens of steers in the experiment.

Five pens of ten steers each were fed different rations during the feeding period, which lasted one hundred and forty days (December 18, 1921 to May 2, 1922).

The following table shows in detail the results of the experiment:

No. Steers in each lot	I	II	III	IV	V
	10 POUNDS	10 POUNDS	10 POUNDS	10 POUNDS	10 POUNDS
Initial Wt. per steer	902.33	904.66	903.66	900.66	893.66
Final Wt. per steer	1242.33	1267.33	1178.66	1257.33	1217.0
Total gain per steer	340	362.67	275	356.67	323.34
Total daily gain per steer	2.43	2.59	1.96	2.55	2.31
Corn silage	28.65	29.95		39.95	48.84
Corn stover	.62	.62		.70	.70
Mixed Hay			7.72
Ear Corn	14.5	10.75	14.5
Shelled corn	14.4	10.10	14.4	12.89
Molasses		3.67
Cottonseed Meal	2.65	2.65	2.65	2.65	2.65
Initial cost per cwt.	$6.60	$6.60	$6.60	$6.60	$6.60
Initial cost per steer	$59.55	$59.71	$59.64	$59.44	$58.98
Cost of feed per steer	$38.72	$39.89	$37.79	$33.17	$26.62
Total cost of steer at end of feeding period	$97.87	$99.60	$97.43	$92.61	$85.60
Cost of feed per cwt. gain	$11.27	$10.99	$13.73	$9.30	$8.20
Pork credit per steer	$6.51	$6.40	$6.40	$2.57
Cost of steer deducting pork	$91.36	$93.20	$91.03	$90.04	$84.60
Necessary selling price per cwt. at feed lot	$7.36	$7.35	$7.72	$7.16	$7.04
Appraised value at feed lot	$7.80	$7.95	$7.65	$7.70	$7.75
Profit per steer not including cost of labor and bedding	$5.54	$7.55	$0.86	$6.77	$9.72

The striking results are shown in lot three and five. In lot III where the ration is made up of mixed hay, corn and cottonseed meal, there is a loss of eighty-six cents on each steer after crediting each steer with pork to the amount of $6.40. While in lot V, with the ration of corn silage, corn stover and cottonseed meal, a profit of $9.72 per steer without any credit for pork.

Molasses was substituted for part of the corn cost per cwt. of gain was lower even tho the feed $2.01 per steer over lot I, in favor of the lot fed molasses.

Hogs were let run in all but pen V. (The pen sides the food they obtained from the droppings, where no corn was fed except in the silage). Besides the food they obtained from the droppings, they were fed one pound per day per hog of a mixture of four parts corn and one part tankage. The cost of this feed was deducted before crediting the steers with pork gained in feed lot.

The value of the manure was considered a fair exchange for cost of labor and bedding. Ear corn was fed seventy days and shelled corn seventy days.

BISHOP BERRY ENDORSES ALTER

Philadelphia, Pa., May 13.—Bishop Berry last night issued for publication an endorsement of Attorney General George E. Alter for Governor. The Bishop's statement follows:

"The written pledge that Mr. Alter gave me some time ago that he would if elected Governor, use his utmost influence to give Pennsylvania an effective enforcement law seems to have made no impression whatever upon the anti-saloon league and other powers which are supposed to be in favor of moral reform."

"This pledge, which Mr. Alter voluntarily made, was widely published in the newspapers of the state and it does seem to me, entitles him to a little fairer treatment than he has received from the managers of the campaign of his competitor. I take no part in partisan politics and up to this moment have been a silent observer of the unfair tactics which have been employed to injure my personal friend Mr. Alter, but I am now compelled to utter a protest. I have nothing to say against Mr. Pinchot, he may be as immaculate as his campaign managers say he is, but I do insist Mr. Alter be given fair treatment. He is one of the most influential laymen of my church. He is trusted implicitly not only by the leaders of the Methodist Episcopal church but by leaders of all churches where he is best known—Protestant, Catholic and Hebrew." His record on the question of prohibition and other moral and social reforms is unimpeachable, he stood absolutely for these measures when it was not as popular as now to be a reformer. The letter which I have received and the telephone conversation to which I have listened since returning to the city last night after a week's absence indicates that there exists among many good people of this city a condition of mind which approaches hysteria. "I did not suppose that I would ever be called upon to listen to such abuse written in so short a space of time as I have listened to within a few hours. The character of this campaign is in striking contrast with that which the friends of Mr. Beveridge have just conducted for him in Indiana. In that canvass there was absolutely no mudslinging, as I personally know. The campaign of vituperation through which we have just passed must be an occasion of sincere regret to all high minded persons. When primary day is over and some people have recovered from the frenzy which now seems to possess them they will not be particularly proud of some things they have said and written."

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK SHAKES PORTLAND

Portland, Ore., May 15.—A sharp earthquake shock lasting ten seconds was felt in all parts of Portland this morning shortly before ten o'clock. Several high buildings in the business section of the city were shaken and residents on the heights reported vases and chinaware shaken from their places. No serious damage was done. Vancouver, Washington, across the Columbia river from Portland reported two shocks; one at 9:27 and a second at 9:30.

RUSS PROBLEM GOES TO HAGUE TRIBUNAL IN FOR SOME WORRY

Genoa, Italy, May 15.—The special subcommittee of the Genoa Economic Conference today sent their reply to the latest Russian note proposing that the Genoa conference be adjourned until June when delegates will meet at the Hague. The United States has been formally invited to join in the Hague conference. The subcommittee's note to Russia was delivered by Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy. Schanzer assured Tchitcherine the Russian delegate that the Allies have no intention of excluding Russia at the Hague and that the Soviet government will have complete equality at the meeting.

Washington, D. C., May 15.—Two bills, providing Attorney General Daugherty with money and machinery for the prosecution of war grafters are slated for quick enactment today. One bill provides $500,000 to be furnished to the Department of justice and the other bill creates a special grand jury in the District of Columbia. The Attorney General told Congress that it is his plan to impanel the special grand jury immediately after he is authorized to do so and lay before it the evidence in the cases which fall under the jurisdiction of the courts here.

ARE PREPARING FOR GAS RAISE PROBE

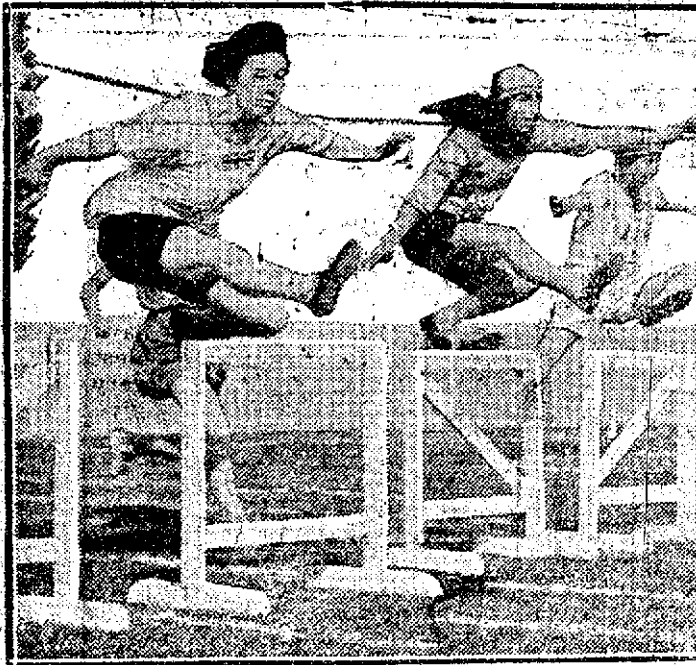

Washington, D. C., May 15.—The investigation ordered by the Senate to determine whether a conspiracy to raise prices exists between big oil producers will get under way just as soon as the proper witnesses can be secured. Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, who introduced the resolution, said he would not permit the Manufacturers Committee, to which it was referred, to delay.

FEAR FOR GREEK CROWN PRINCESS

Athens, Greece, May 15.—Grave fears were expressed today for the life of Frances Elizabeth, wife of the Crown Prince of Greece, who was reported in a critical condition following an operation.

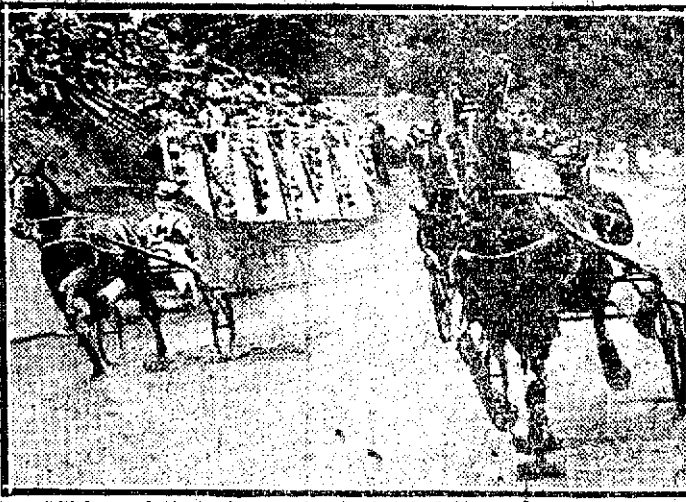

Shoes.
Shoes should not be left near the fire. Heat destroys leather. A little vasoline put between the soles and uppers just before going out in rainy weather will help to keep the feet dry and the shoes in good condition.

Winning Women's Olympic Hurdle

Miss A. Wright of England, left, going over the last hurdle in the 74-meter race in the Women's Olympic at Monte Carlo. She won by two laps over competitors of Belgium, France and Italy.

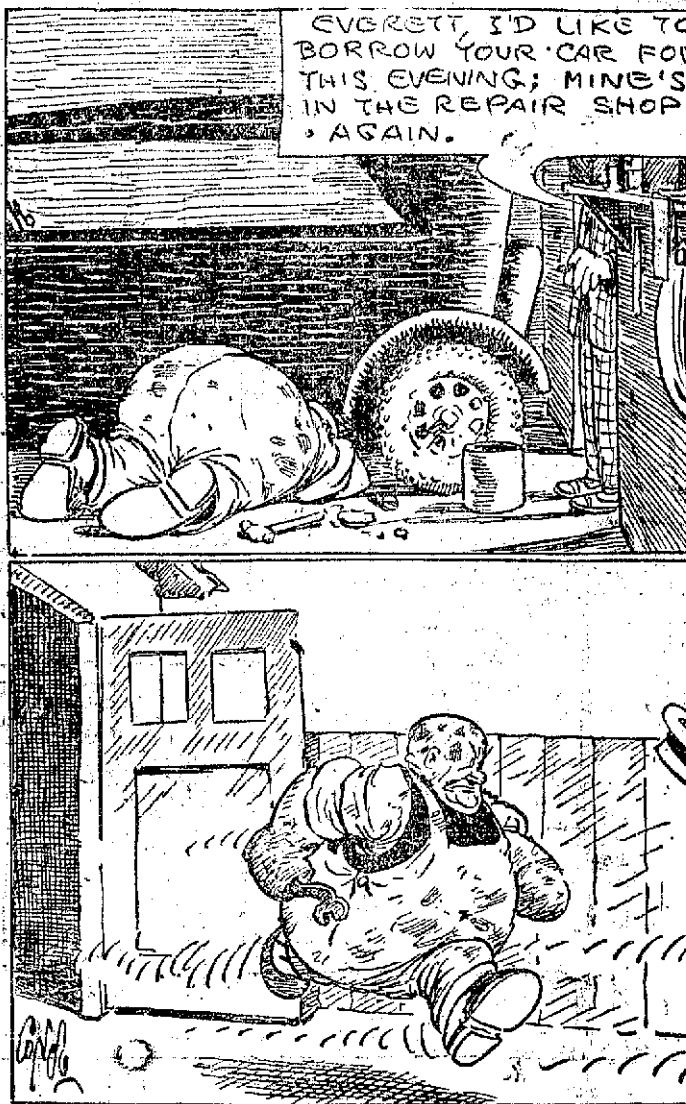

Another Flapper Shocks Her Ma

"Girls are faster'n they used to be," sighed Cherry Gentry, racehorse, as her daughter, Cherry Abbe, right, finished first in an especially arranged race between them near Atlanta, Ga.

VOTERS:

*Keep Jones In Mind
for Assemblyman*

ooOoo

Clearfield county voters should keep in mind Chas. B. Jones, of Bigler township, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Assembly from the First District. Mr. Jones, in a statement to the public, says:

"I stand for a state budget that will keep the expenses within the income. I am for good government and the reduction of the taxes. I favor good schools, and I certainly want to see good roads all over the state, but at a reasonable cost to the taxpayers.

"The maintenance of the direct primary is, in my opinion, very essential, and I am, of course, in favor of protecting the rights of the women voters.

"If nominated and elected I will work for any liberal legislation for the support and welfare of soldiers, sailors and marines, and will never lose sight of the old comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic.

"I am in favor of a real prohibition law and for the enforcement of all laws.

"These are my sentiments. If they appeal to you, support and vote for me. Second name in the Assembly column."

Pressure Produced Diamonds.
In 1915 Sir Andrew Noble experimented in closed steel cylinders in which he had introduced a temperature of over 5,000 degrees Celsius and a pressure of 50 tons to the square inch. Some of the carbon produced under these conditions was found to contain minute diamonds.

Peculiar Toothache "Remedy."
People of the Middle Ages believed the best remedy for an aching tooth to be an application of serpent's skin steeped in vinegar.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE GAMES

The following games in the Clearfield Community Service Sunday School Base Ball League are scheduled for the Driving Park tomorrow, Tuesday afternoon; at 4 p. m. Junior League, West Side M. E. church vs. First Presbyterian church; 5 p. m. Senior League, the Brotherhood Team of the West Side M. E. church vs. Boyce's class of the West Side M. E. church. The latter two teams have been doing considerable practicing and the keen competition between them promises a good game.

Administration Is Silent On Invitation

Washington, D. C., May 15.—Republican administration officials today declined to indicate what America's answer would be to the Allied invitation asking that the United States participate in the International Conference on the Russian problem. The Conference will be held at The Hague June 15th. The invitation as forwarded by Ambassador Child from Genoa was received at the State Department at 10 o'clock this morning.

U. S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETS

Washington, D. C., May 15.—Washington today assumed the role of business capital of the country when hundreds of captains of industry gathered for a convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Four days will be devoted to the task of mapping out a route to complete the economic rehabilitation of the country. While general sessions will not be begun until tomorrow the work of selecting committees was taken up today.
